PREFACE.

IN the year 1882 the Smithsonian Institution issued the "Nomenclator Zoologicus" of S. H. Scudder, intended to be a complete Index to the generic names used in Zoology to the close of the year 1879.

Scudder's work has been highly appreciated. Great as was the labour involved in its production, this was far from wasted. The work has since been used by every one desirous of ascertaining what names exist, or of finding a clue to the origin and zoological usage of some particular name.

It was composed of the previous "Nomenclators" of Agassiz and Marschall, together with the names contained in the Indexes of the "Zoological Record," vols. 1-16, and names supplied by Scudder himself and by various zoological friends; the names coming from this last source being chiefly omissions from the earlier works of Agassiz and Marschall.

When Scudder's "Nomenclator" was published, the author mentioned in the preface that the Smithsonian Institution intended to issue decennial supplements to it. As two such periods have passed and no supplement has appeared, and as a letter addressed by the Secretary of the Zoological Society to the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution elicited no reply that might justify us in expecting that the Institution would carry out its intention, the preparation of the present work was authorized by the Council of the Zoological Society, in the hopes that it would prove of assistance to those engaged in zoological study.

Mr. C. O. Waterhouse, one of the staff of the British Museum (Natural History), has taken an interest in this field of work for many years past, and, as is narrated in Mr. Scudder's preface, he handed that gentleman a list that was largely useful in the compilation of the "Nomenclator." He has continued his work since then, and the Index we are now offering to the zoological public is the result of his perseverance. It is, as nearly as may be, a continuation of Scudder's work, and the method of indexing adopted is, as nearly as may be, uniform with that of Scudder, and with the Indexes appended to the annual volumes of the "Zoological Record."

When the Council of the Zoological Society decided to undertake this Index, an appeal was issued to zoologists, asking them to supply omitted names. In answer to this appeal many names were received; these were added to those already accumulated by Mr. Waterhouse, and were combined with those contained in vols. 17-37 of the "Zoological Record." It was at first intended that these materials should form the complete work. But when the Index began to pass through the press, the Editor found that many names of old standing were not included in it nor in Scudder's work. As these two lists form the only satisfactory channel for bringing to the notice of the public names that have been proposed for use, it appeared to be highly desirable that the Index should include all names that could be obtained by such an amount of work as was consistent with the means at the disposal of the Compiler and Editor, and with the fact that an early issue of the volume had been promised. In order to complete the Index a system of collation with the Indexes of important zoological catalogues, etc., has been carried on while the work has been passing through the press. A great many omitted names have thus been discovered.* These have been added to the manuscript and proof so far as was possible; and in cases where the sheets had already been printed off have been consigned to a supplement. Both Editor and Compiler greatly regret the division thus entailed, but it is clearly desirable to have this supplementary list issued in company with the main Index. It will at any rate ensure that the names shall find their proper places in the next complete list that may be issued.

The number of names contained in Scudder's list is about 80,000, and the additional number in this Index is about 40,000. The numbers of new generic names in the Indexes of the "Zoological Record" for the twenty-one years here collected are as follows:—

Year.					Number of new names.
1880 1,008
1881 1,438
1882 1,015
1883 1,079
1884 1,033
1885 1,066
1886 1,065
1887 1,376
1888† 1,749
1889 1,071
1890 1,522
1891 1,399
1892 1,520
1893 1,575
1894 1,438
1895 1,906
1896 1,541
1897 1,574
1898 1,573
1899 1,633
1900 2,102

* It is a curious fact that the omissions are proportionately greater in the Vertebrate than they are in the Invertebrate division of the Animal Kingdom.

† In this year, 1888, there was included a great many names belonging to the year 1869, reducing the number of the year's names to some 1200 or 1300.

Both Scudder's list and our Index include a considerable number of names that are merely synonyms. I should think that about one-third may be deducted on this account and for other reasons; if, therefore, we take 40,000 from the 120,000 names included in the two works, we have 80,000 as the number of names in use in Zoology (including Palæontology) at the present time for genera and subgenera. The annual crop of new names is increasing in a striking manner. Of the 40,000 names in our Index, about 6000 belong to the period antecedent to 1880. If we subtract this number from our list and add it to that of Scudder, we note that during the period from 1758 to 1879, 86,000 names were proposed, i.e. about 775 annually; while from 1880 to 1900 some 33,000 names, or about 1150 per annum, were set out. The discrepancy between the two periods is really very much greater than this, because Scudder's list includes family and other names that are not indexed in the "Zoological Record." Hence it is safe to say that the proposal of new names has gone on with increasing profusion, and was in 1900 about three times as great as it was a century ago. If we add to this consideration the conviction of many zoologists, that not above one-tenth of existing animals is known, and not one-hundredth part of the extinct forms, it is clear that the proposal of new names is likely to continue its rate of growth; so that the necessity for Indexes and Records of a complete and comprehensive nature cannot be doubted.

There is one point of a general nature that should be alluded to; it is connected with emended names. In the preparation of such a list as this, grave difficulties arise from the practice of many zoologists of emending a name without stating that they are making a new name. The methods of the earlier writers were very loose in this respect, and it is consequently in many cases difficult to trace the history of names that are at present in use. Every writer who proposes to alter a name that has been previously proposed should do so in a formal manner, and the altered name should then find its way into Indexes as it would do if it were an altogether new name.* It is impossible to draw a line between emended names and new names, and the right course is to treat emended names and new names as being of one category.

* The writer of this preface is not to be treated as a supporter of the practice of altering and amending names. On the contrary, he is of opinion that every name of a genus should be used in the form in which it was originally proposed, nothing but errors that are obviously printer's errors being corrected. The best course is to leave names alone. But all authors do not agree to this, and we must therefore insist that those who propose alterations should do so in a formal manner.

EXPLANATION OF THE SYSTEM OF ENTRIES ADOPTED, AND OF ABBREVIATIONS.

THE entries in the Index are of two kinds, viz. :—

(1) As regards names given in the volumes of the “Zoological Record” 1880–1900, this class is distinguished by the absence of a semicolon from the entry. The volume of the Record is indicated by the date, which is given in an abbreviated form : '95 meaning the volume for the year 1895. After the date follows the division of the Record—“Mamm.,” for instance. This method is rendered necessary by the fact that the volumes of the Record have no pagination continuous from beginning to end, each division of the record having its own pagination. The entry “Aachenosaurus, Smets, '88, Rept. 17,” is thus an abbreviated form of “Aachenosaurus, proposed by Smets, and registered in the volume of the Record for the year 1888, Reptilia, p. 17.” By far the larger number of entries are of this kind. The date given is not necessarily that of the proposal of the name, neither is the Class of animals indicated necessarily that to which the animal really belongs. We may, however, point out that the date of the volume is usually the same as the year in which the name was proposed,* and that the Class of animals is nearly always correctly indicated.†

(2) The second kind of entry comprises all names that are not included in the “Zoological Record.” These names have been derived from a great variety of sources, and the information accompanying them is sometimes inadequate. These entries always have a semicolon. The mode in which they are drawn up is intended to make them as conformable as may be with the more numerous entries of the first kind. The reference accompanying them is sometimes a direct one, but more frequently is indirect, i.e. only the clue to where an explanation of the name may be found is given. These clues are included in square brackets.

Most of the abbreviations of titles of periodicals are those used in the “Zoological Record,” and recorded in the list of abbreviations issued with each volume, and do not therefore require explanation here. The following notes will explain the abbreviations we have not already dealt with :—

* The discrepancy of date when it occurs is frequently only of one year, but may be of two or more years. The most important of the discrepancies created by this secondary mode of indication is in the case of Foerster's genera of Hymenoptera which were proposed in 1869 or 1870, though only inserted in the Record for 1888.

† The indication of class is sometimes inexact or incorrect in the case of fossil forms that were imperfectly interpreted when described and named.

The name [in square brackets] of the authority who sent the entry to us is appended in many cases. To all these gentlemen we owe our thanks. Even when the information sent is imperfect, the name is still useful for preventing the creation of synonyms, and will no doubt be traced to its source before very long.

Special thanks are gratefully offered to those who have been of much assistance. Although it is difficult to draw the line between great assistance and moderate assistance, we may mention that Dr. Bergroth's lists have been most valuable. We owe to him the discovery of many names to which his own is not appended. Dr. Oudemans has sent a complete list of the genera of Acari. This was very important, as the number of names of genera of Acari omitted from previous lists is almost incredibly large. The list sent by him of genera in Carus and Gerstaecker has given us considerable perplexity, as C. & G. give no references whatever, so that it is difficult to decide whether a name that appears in their list may be correct or a slightly different form of some other name.

Mr. C. D. Sherborn has kindly compiled for us the entries from Gistel's "Naturgeschichte des Thierreichs." This work has been overlooked by zoologists, and we fear is destined to give rise to much perplexity.

Mr. F. H. Waterhouse sent an interleaved copy of his "Index Generum Avium." This was valuable; the proportion of names of genera of birds omitted from previous lists being surprisingly great. Dr. F. Moore and Dr. Holland sent useful lists of Lepidopterous names. Mr. T. D. A. Cockerell furnished a list of all the genera described by him. Mr. J. Hartley Durrant furnished a list in which there were about 70 additions. Dr. L. O. Howard sent a good list. Dr. H. H. Field sent one from which we obtained several omitted names, and Mr. G. W. Kirkaldy furnished clues to other omissions. Mr. Nathan Banks, of Virginia; Mr. Edgar R. Waite, of the Australian Museum, Sydney; Mr. Peckham, of Wisconsin; Dr. R. H. Traquair, and Mr. E. R. Sykes, each contributed a valuable list.

It is, perhaps, well to remark that our Index gives a name no authority. That a name appears in it, or in Scudder, is no assurance that it is in any way valid or good. This point can only be settled by systematists. We hope that one of the ways in which our Index will be valuable is that it will bring before them the points we have to settle.

Except for some 3000 names collected by Mr. Waterhouse and a few by the Editor, our Index is not drawn directly from the original sources, and we have not thought it proper to adopt any course that would give it an appearance of finality that it does not really possess. It is an Index of clues, and the student must go to the original for authentic information.

The preparation of this list has involved a great deal of work, and the passing of it through the press has been no slight task. Every name and figure taken from the "Zoological Record" Indexes has been checked by comparison with the original Index to ensure accuracy.

The members of the staff of Zoology at the British Museum have been most helpful by furnishing information, as well as clues to a variety of enigmas; and the compiler of the Index, Mr. C. O. Waterhouse, wishes me especially to thank Mr. G. A. Boulenger, Mr. Oldfield Thomas, Mr. W. F. Kirby, Prof. F. Jeffrey Bell, Mr. R. I. Pocock, Mr. R. Kirkpatrick, Mr. F. Bather, and Dr. Forsyth Major. Messrs. G. J. Arrow, E. E. Austen, F. J. Bell, C. J. Gahan, F. A. Heron, and E. A. Smith have given much time and attention to keeping the proofs accurate. I have the greatest pleasure in thanking them for their effective assistance.

Dr. S. F. Harmer has helped me in dealing with the names of Bryozoa. The nomenclature of this class had been much neglected, and Dr. Harmer's almost complete knowledge of it has been very valuable.

The kindly interest taken by Dr. P. L. Slater in the work, and the advice he has given about it have been most encouraging.

THE END.

THE ZOOLOGICAL RECORD.

THE object of the ZOOLOGICAL RECORD is to give, by means of an annual Volume, complete lists of the Works and Publications relating to Zoology in all its branches that have appeared during the year preceding the issue of the Volume, together with full information as to the points they deal with, arranged in such a manner as to serve as an Index to the literature of Zoology in all parts of the globe, and thus to form a repertory which will retain its value for the Student in future years.

The "Zoological Record" is published for the Society by Messrs. Gurney and Jackson, at the price of 30s. per volume. But all Members of the Zoological Society of London have the privilege of receiving it, including the cost of delivery (within the United Kingdom), at a subscription price of 20s. per annum. This Subscription is due on the 1st of July in every year, and the privilege of Subscription is forfeited unless the amount be paid before the 1st of December following.

The Zoological Society, having purchased the entire stock of the "Zoological Record," are able to supply complete sets. The thirty-seven Volumes to the end of the nineteenth century, and the Index-Volume in addition, will be supplied for £15 (or without the Index-Volume, for £14 10s.). Volumes of any single year (exclusive of the last five volumes and Vol. 6) can likewise be supplied at 10s. per volume.

Members of the Society wishing to subscribe to the "Record" are requested to apply at this office for a Form, to be returned when filled up and signed by the subscriber. In order to facilitate the payment of the subscription, a Banker's Order Form is also furnished to those who prefer that mode of payment. This order, when filled up and signed, should be sent to the Society's office for registration; it will then be sent to the Agents named therein.

Learned Societies and Institutions and members of the former Zoological Record Association are permitted to subscribe to the "Record" on the same conditions as are accorded to Members of the Zoological Society.
